

YVONNE SEDUCES FASHION WORLD WITH EVENINGWEAR COLLECTION

Cheshire based designer, Yvonne Gillon has captured the 'wow' factor in her new Eveningwear Collection exuding elegance and sophistication inspired by the glamorous, sumptuous fabrics sourced from throughout Europe.

"Glamour is back and women are looking in celebrity magazines and saying I want a dress like that," said Yvonne. "Furthermore, women want to look sexy and glamorous whatever age they are without the almost naked look. You can achieve both allure and sexiness, but elegantly with made to measure. Gowns do not have to be cut down to the navel or the bottom - in fact, there is more eroticism in what you can guess at."

The showcase pieces of Yvonne's Eveningwear Collection are beautifully tailored in vibrant colours, designed to be flattering and comfortable to wear. The red satin bodice with plunge neckline is fitted in to the waist with a skirt in silk organza covered in origami squares of silk which erupt to a crescendo at the hem. Similarly the gown in fuschia satin is reminiscent of the gypsified, flamenco era - a simple bodice with detachable ruffle at the shoulder and a skirt in fuschia tulle with a purple organza ragged effect.

"I wanted to make eveningwear more wearable," said Yvonne. "Both these outfits combine a double skirt - the intricate overskirt can be removed to reveal a gorgeous, sleek, simple two-piece - so wear it twice as two different outfits. In fact, the skirts can also be worn long or short by being gathered up."

Yvonne has complemented her Collection with a luxurious ankle skimming velvet evening coat, lined in shimmering satin,

"I have received so many requests for this coat from women who wanted something to wear over an evening dress," she said. "Eveningwear has become much more special, classic, dressy and elaborate both in cut and in fabric and I still maintain that whatever age you are, if you have an eye for fashion you want to hold on to that bit of sexiness in an outfit and that is what my new Eveningwear Collection encapsulates."
